

There was a time when these mountains were valleys
And I raised them up for you.

There was a time when this landscape was barren
I planted the trees for you too.

In time before time the horse was but a thought
I made him to be strong to be kind.

I did this for you before you were born
For I had this moment in mind.

